DEFENSE ASKS FOR THE DISCHARGE OF ADAM GREENBERG

Attorneys Claim That The Commonwealth Failed To Establish Burden of Proof

DELAY IN THE ANALYSIS

Liquid Found On Premises, Chemist Says, Was Petroleum Distillate

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 29.—The defense yesterday in the Adam Greenberg case moved for the discharge of the defendant and then argued to the court that the Commonwealth had failed to establish the burden of proof required in a circumstantial evidence case. The motion was overruled by Judge Boyer and an exception allowed.

The defense was reached at noon in the long drawn out case of Adam Greenberg, 55, charged with arson at his Black Cat Inn near Plumsteadville on the early morning of October 6, 1938.

This is the second trial of the case before Judge Calvin S. Boyer and Judge Hiram H. Keller in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Bucks County.

The Black Cat Inn has not been rebuilt since the fire. The inn included a dance floor, lunch counter and beer tap room.

District Attorney Edward G. Biester, prosecuting the case, called Deputy Sheriff Harry Ross to show that Greenberg purchased the Black Cat Inn at Sheriff's sale in 1936.

Defense Attorney David Getz, Allentown, one of the trio representing Greenberg, called the Commonwealth's witness, Private Felix B. Gowan, Motor Police, for further questioning.

Paragraphs from the testimony given by the Commonwealth's Chief witness, Gowan, at the first trial, was read into evidence by the defense counsel, which described the liquid exhibits at the first trial as being "gasoline."

The Commonwealth offered evidence to prove that the liquid found in the

60,000 Troops Poured In Fray

Helsinki, Feb. 29.—Three more Red Army divisions, or nearly 60,000 fresh troops, today were thrown into Russia's titanic struggle to swarm over the shell-blazing ice of Viborg Bay and capture the ruins of Finland's second city.

Reinforcements steadily are being rushed to the Viborg front but the Leningrad command have brought to from 28 to 33 the number of divisions—and over half a million men—striving to smash or outflank the Mannerheim Line.

But the thick ice is studded with mines laid by the Finns before the freeze-over, and artillery shells from Finnish forts maintain a constant pounding, bursting, impassable crevices in the ice.

Report Greater Activity

Paris, Feb. 29.—Greater activity of ground patrols along the western front, particularly west of the Vosges mountains, was reported today, but no spectacular clashes developed. Machine gun exchanges occurred along the Rhine.

The high command's military bulletin also admitted that enemy planes flew over northwestern Germany last night.

The place was overstocked with rabbits and many of them remained unsold.

About 1000 persons attended, the proceeds of which amounted to $2674.7. The sale of the poultry alone amounted to $994.32.

The cattle sale was fair, and during the afternoon four cows were sold at prices which ranged from $70 to $90. Several heifers were offered, but were not sold. More than 20 calves were also offered. They brought from $2 to $6.50 each. Only one horse was sold, it having brought $22.

The offering of goats was unusually heavy, but the prices received for them were only fair. They brought from 25 cents to $7.25 each.

About 200 hogs were on the premises, but only about half of them were sold.

An oil burner air-conditioning system has been installed to insure comfort.

ARREST TWO BROTHERS FOR ALLEGED ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP OF STORE IN BENSLEM TOWNSHIP

Walter Sosinski, 25, and Stanley Sosinski, 19, Both of Bensalem Township, Are Held for Court Without Bail — Both Are Taken to County Jail at Doylestown — Were Masked and Brandished A Gun.

Two youthful brothers are in Bucks County Prison at Doylestown, following recognition of one of them by a man they attempted to victimize in an alleged hold-up.

The two charged with a "stick-up" are: Walter Sosinski, aged 25, and his brother, Stanley Sosinski, 19, both of Bensalem Township.

According to information lodged by Clarence Black, who operates a store at Mechanicsville and Street roads, the two young men, masked, entered his store on Monday night. He claims that Walter brandished a gun, and demanded that Black "stick-up" his hands, and hand over goods of value.

Black told officers that he recognized one of the lads, and called him by name, the two then hurriedly leaving.

Yesterday Corporal Evans and Private Jones, of Pennsylvania Motor Police, and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, arrested the two.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace Cooper, the Sosinski brothers were held without bail for court. They were taken to Doylestown immediately.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Black were at home at the time. They operate a light lunch and refreshment store.

The girl was found in an unconscious condition in her bedroom on February 21st, by her father when he returned home. A .32 calibre revolver was used, Miss Taddi shooting herself in the breast. The weapon was owned by a member of the family.

Unanswered Questions In Quiz Go To The Audience

One of the moot questions as far as the Inter-Service Club Quiz tonight is concerned, is just how many questions all four clubs will miss, and which will subsequently be put before the audience to answer.

That is one of the rules—"In the case of a group failing to answer a question or failing to complete an answer, the person interrogating shall present the question to the audience for a voluntary response. The same question will not be presented to another group."

The question contest is sponsored by the Junior Travel Club in the club home, with the Rotary, Exchange and Senior Travel Clubs forming the other three teams. The juniors also have a team of three members to enter the contest.

All is "ship-shape," with an official time-keeper, group of three impartial non-residents as judges, and a disinterested person to present the questions.

The question uppermost today is "Who will win the prizes?"

Weeping Over Mr. Weir

Washington, Feb. 28.

THE curious mental operations of the New Dealers whom Mr. Roosevelt has brought to Washington and by whom he is surrounded are not easy to explain except upon the ground that there is something about their associations and their creed that, after a while, renders even the best among them incapable of a detached view or a fair judgment.

A BILLION IN DEFAULT

Two answers may be offered to the defaults of $1,053,000,000 in principal and interest from the lending operations of thirty-three government corporations, as shown by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's report to Congress. One is that a potential loss of more than $1,000,000,000 is of no small moment in any circumstance. The other is that the lending has extended to purposes open to question so far as concerns the use of public funds.

A disturbing disclosure is that there is no uniformity of auditing the accounts of these huge government agencies operating as corporations. More than that, fifteen of them are completely exempt from examination by the general accounting office. Seven are not required even to make annual reports to Congress. Yet they have made loans of nearly $25,000,000,000 and have incurred obligations of $7,000,000,000 against net assets of $12,400,000,000. And even the Treasury "has been unable to estimate the existing legislative authority for the issuance of further obligations by these corporations to be guaranteed in full by the Federal Government."

This is an astounding situation for which Congress is largely responsible, stemming back to the days when it was little more than a rubber stamp for the executive branch.

It is the duty of Congress to lose no time in applying correctives. What these should be is indicated by Senator Byrd, who brought about the submission of the Morgenthau report. They include placing the operations under control of Congress, co-ordinating the various activities, canceling unlimited authority for further borrowing and providing for audits and appraisals by the general accounting office.

CENSUS QUESTIONS

Advance notice of the questions to be asked in taking the 1940 census has provoked criticism. The census bureau is getting heaps of letters from worried citizens who don't want to tell how much or how little income they have; how much they are in debt or whether there is a mortgage on the homestead.

A bill to remove from the census form questions about amounts received as salary or wages and whether "income of $50 or more from sources other than money wages or salary" has been received has been introduced by Senator Charles W. Tobey, and a like measure will be backed in the House by Rep. Daniel A. Reed.

In smaller communities the knowledge that local business men or corporations are heavily in debt and have not met expenses during the last year, might be used to ruin individuals and bring unemployment, distress and poverty to many innocent persons. Putting on record the private affairs of the more prosperous, is preparing a sucker list of immense proportions.

It is not a sufficient answer that census authorities do not make public the facts concerning private affairs of individual citizens. Census takers are appointed locally, on the basis of worth to the New Deal and it would be expecting too much to think that they will keep every thing secret that they learn.

The CAIRO GARTER MURDERS

SYNOPSIS

Assisting Major Bruce Kilgour of the British Intelligence Service on a special assignment, Captain Hugh North, of G-2, U. S. Army Intelligence, boards the S. S. Port Lucknow at sea, in the dead of night. Kilgour keeps him in ignorance regarding their mission except to infer that Sir George Ruthven, in Cairo, will enlighten the Captain. North is instructed to act as though he and Kilgour are strangers. Next day, at the bar, M. Levasseur, a sardonic Frenchman, is extremely curious to learn why the ship stopped during the night. Evasively North answers, "I hadn't heard it."

CHAPTER II

"It's a good table you have here," North went on.

"But yes. Here one can see what goes on, n'est-ce pas?" M. Levasseur smiled in esoteric amusement. "One has noticed, mon capitaine, that you enjoy observing people. I do also, therefore it is all the more surprising that I have not before today noticed so distinguished a fellow passenger."

Captain North shrugged away further uncertainty. "I came aboard at Cherbourg," he said. "That gentleman seems to know you." He inclined his head toward a man of medium stature who, in a conservative dark business suit, sat alone at a near-by table. Gravely courteous, he bowed a little and beckoned Levasseur.

Immediately the Frenchman raised a hand in a return gesture of salutation. "Big!" It is Doctor Ladd, the outstanding authority on the Eighteenth Dynasty of Egyptian kings. There is nothing about Thutmose III, Amosis I, or either of the Amenophises that he does not know. It was Doctor Ladd who translated a unique cartouche giving Amenophis IV's surname, Khu-En-Aten."

"I should be delighted to meet him," North murmured. "Recently I've had an overdose of café intelligence."

Levasseur promptly made the introductions and North found himself seated opposite a pleasant-looking man of about fifty whose very smooth and pink skin, thinning blond hair and kindly light blue eyes made him look ten years younger. In fact, to start with, he suggested a child's Easter bunny more than anything North could think of. There were lines about his mouth, however, unsuggestive of anything so meek and gentle as a rabbit and vital glints became visible in the depths of the scholar's innocuous-looking eyes. An odd, unusual character this, North felt, as experiencing a sense of pleasurable anticipation, he sank onto one of the cafe-bar's red-upholstered settees.

"When last I left Cairo," Levasseur began, "you were undertaking some excavations of the most promising at—Mon Dieu, it escapes me!"

"At Es Shobak, a most successful undertaking," Dr. Ladd replied. "Es Shobak?" Levasseur frowned, seemed doubtful. "That does not sound familiar. And I thought little of lower Egypt was unknown to me."

"Evening, gentlemen." Before their table was standing rather uncertainly a young man in evening clothes which were neither well cut nor yet badly fitting. "D'you mind if I sit down? I hate drinking alone."

Impatiently Levasseur started to shake his head, but Dr. Ladd had already nodded to a vacant chair.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney and John Sauerwald will attend the funeral service tomorrow.

The Ladies' Aid Society will participate in a covered dish social this evening, following the business session in Newport Road Chapel.

will call the tune," fifth, he is "not in sympathy with the liberal movement." And so on and so forth—all of it indistinguishable from the stock stuff of the party publicity agents.

ONE of the more intelligent of these New Dealish writers, in voicing his grief about Mr. Weir, resorted to demagoguery of which he should be ashamed in describing "these millionaires around here dripping salty tears on the polished decks of their beautiful yachts." Perhaps this New Deal friend, provoked because he recently spoke out against a third term, but it was well below his usual level. Others, less high-grade, have seized upon Mr. Weir with the same ferocity with which four years ago they seized upon the Liberty League and the stunned Dr. Ladd. Perhaps they are justified. This is not written in defense of Mr. Weir. Though there is slight evidence of it, he may be a fiend in human form who itches to enslave us all. But that is not the question. The question is why these gifted writers should so excite themselves over the selection of Mr. Weir, who, after all, would seem normally designed for a finance chairman, and remain calm and contented about—even oblivious to—the multimillionaires, fat cats, yacht owners and economic royalists who for seven years have supplied a large part of the New Deal campaign funds—and are still at it.

ARE not Mr. "Tony" Biddle, Mr. "Jimmie" Cromwell and Mr. "Joe" Davlee millionaires? Are not the decks of the large and lovely yachts which they own highly polished? Does not Mr. Vincent Astor, with whom the President used regularly to spend his vacations, possess a not too small boat and did he not once contribute more than a few dollars? And what about that stainless and selfless official of the Democratic Committee, Mr. "Chip" Roberts? Is there nothing at all about the way of giving money or getting money of such gentlemen to arouse the wrath of these literary opponents of "idle wealth" and "selfish greed"? And then there was the activity of Mr. Roosevelt's friend, Mr. Walker, in collecting (one man referred to it as "mac-ing") funds from other men of great fortunes to erect that Hyde Park memorial in which Mr. Roosevelt will put his public and private papers.

WAS there nothing in that or in replenishing the party coffers through the sale of very cheap Presidential autographed campaign books at exorbitant and ridiculous prices to individuals and corporations—was there nothing in that to arouse the anger of these militant gentlemen who are so sensitive to the source of campaign funds and the method of gathering them? Perhaps, there is no connection, but it nevertheless seems reasonable also to mention here the recent disclosure that the Roosevelt and Sargent insurance firm in which Mr. Jimmie Roosevelt still has an interest and in which his mother is a director, recently secured the insurance business of the Government-controlled Dollar shipping line, of which not very long ago, at the suggestion of his father, ex-Senator McAdoo was made the head.

IT may be that Mr. Roosevelt's firm got this business away from the San Francisco firm which had had it for years—as he has contended it got all other business—solely on merit and without any political or personal pressure or consideration whatever. It may be that "Jimmie," notoriously unmercenary, didn't even know about it. It is mentioned here not to make any unkind insinuation against a noble young man, but merely to remark that if, for example, while he was President, one of Mr. Herbert Hoover's sons had been revealed as even remotely connected with a firm which solicited and accepted such business from a Government-owned concern, the righteous and talented journalists who today weep over Mr. Weir would have broken all records in the expression of their horror. As for the Administration publicity agents—they would have shouted for the impeachment of the President and the jailing of his son. It, of course, makes a lot of difference whose ox is being gored, but it does seem that those whose business is supposed to require an impartial view of both sides of the picture might perceive the absurdity of pointing out the specks on one only.

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

Take These Tips For Delicious 'Deep-Fat' Dishes

The delicious flavor of some particular deep-fat fried food often prompts us to choose a certain restaurant when we eat out.

Foods fried in deep fat can be as much of a treat in our own home, for it is an easy and economical way of making every day foods tasty and attractive.

Maybe you're one of the persons who doesn't like to use the deep-fat method in her home because "it smokes up the house so badly." That's your most obvious clue that something is wrong in the method you're using, and when smoking occurs your product won't be up to snuff either. Let's see what might be wrong.

Fat Should Not Smoke

A smoking temperature means that the fat is too hot for frying any foods. When fat begins to smoke, decomposition is taking place and a substance called acrolein is formed. This is what makes your eyes burn, irritates your throat, makes that peculiar odor and also disturbs the digestive system. It is only when foods are fried in fats which have reached the smoking temperature that they are hard to digest. Anyone with normal digestion can eat doughnuts and fritters and deep-fried croquettes, properly prepared, without thinking that he's being mean to himself.

Lard for Deep-Fat Frying

Inez S. Willson, home economist, shows that lard meets all requirements of a fat for deep-fat frying. The smoking point of lard is above 380 degrees F., and no food needs a higher temperature for frying.

After each use, lard should be strained through cheesecloth to remove any food particles. These particles, if left in the fat, will lower its smoking temperature and make it less desirable for future use. If there are very fine particles, grandmother's trick of putting slices of raw potato into the kettle of cold lard and gradually heating until the potato is well browned is still good. After such procedure, the lard should be strained and when not in use it should be covered and stored in a cool place.

Kettle Makes a Difference

Even the kettle you use makes a difference. A kettle which has a narrow diameter and is deep is preferred to a shallow pan of large diameter, for the smoking temperature of fat is lowered as the surface exposed is increased.

Deep-Fat Thermometer

The easy way to tell when the fat is hot enough for frying is by using a deep-fat frying thermometer. That is the accurate way, too.

Necessity is the mother of invention; that's how we got the thermometer; but if you don't have yours yet, then necessity must be the mother of ingenuity and all you need to test the fat is a one-inch cube of bread. Drop this cube of bread in hot lard. Fat at 350 degrees F. will brown the bread in not less than one minute; at 360 degrees F. it will brown in one minute, and at 370 degrees F., in about 40 seconds.

Simple Desserts Most Popular

Most of us prepare elaborate desserts for special occasions. Few make this a regular practice as the days and weeks come and go. We prefer the simple dessert, particularly if it is easy to prepare, economical and delicious.

Here is a dessert that does not call for eggs. No baking or boiling is needed. The ingredients should be in every home at all times — with the possible exception of the toasted almonds for which you can easily find a substitute. Mothers of children who refuse to drink milk will find it particularly beneficial.

Apricot Vanilla Rennet-Custard
 ½ cup dried apricots
 1 cup cold water
 1 tablespoon sugar
 2 cups milk (not canned or soft curd)
 1 package vanilla rennet powder
 Chocolate sauce
 Chopped toasted almonds

Wash dried apricots thoroughly, add water, cover, and simmer for ½ to 1 hour, or until soft, adding more water if necessary to prevent scorching. Drain off excess liquid and rub apricots through a strainer, stir in the sugar, and cool. Divide cooled puree among 4 or 5 sherbet glasses or custard cups. Make rennet-custard according to directions on package. Pour over apricot puree. Do not move until firm — about 10 minutes. Then chill. Just before serving, garnish with a pool of thick chocolate sauce and a sprinkling of chopped toasted almonds.

Makes 4 to 5 servings, depending on size of sherbets.

This Month's STAR RECIPE

By BETTY BARCLAY

As lemon meringue pie is a favorite with both young and old, I have chosen the following as this month's star recipe.

Try it and see if you don't agree with my choice. Yes! I am giving the meringue recipe also. Follow both carefully and your dessert that day will be a thrilling dinner finish.

Sunkist Lemon Meringue Pie

1 cup water or milk
 ¼ cup sugar
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 5 tablespoons cornstarch
 ½ cup cold water
 2 well-beaten egg yolks
 1 tablespoon butter
 6 tablespoons lemon juice
 Bring water or milk, sugar, salt and lemon peel to a boil in saucepan on direct heat. Add cornstarch, blended with ½ cup of cold water. Cook over low heat, until thickened (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add separately, mixing well after each addition, the egg yolks, butter and lemon juice. Pour filling into baked pastry shell.

When filling is cool, top with a meringue, made from:

2 egg whites
 4 tablespoons sugar
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 Beat egg whites until frothy. Add sugar gradually. Continue beating but only until egg holds its shape in peaks. Fold in lemon juice. Brown pie in moderate oven (325° F.) for 15 minutes. (Makes one 8-inch pie.)

Note the three lemon pie tricks that are followed in this recipe. Trick one — add lemon juice and egg to pastry mix — result, flaky crust of a superior tenderness. Trick two — cook filling first, then add freshly squeezed lemon juice after the cooking flame is out — result, a filling fragrantly fresh in flavor. Trick three — add a little lemon juice to the meringue — result, a more tender, easy-to-cut meringue.

Deep-fat frying gives an especially good flavor to bland foods and leftovers. LeMover meats made into croquettes are not only not recognized as leftovers but are so well liked they may be preferred to the original. Try these easy croquettes.

Economy Croquettes

2 cups ground or finely diced roast pork
 1 cup raw grated carrots
 1 cup fine moist bread crumbs
 ¼ cup grated onion
 1 egg
 1 teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon pepper
 Dry bread crumbs
 Milk
 Lard for deep-fat frying
 Combine all ingredients, except dry crumbs and milk. Divide into six parts and shape into croquettes. Roll in crumbs, then in milk and again in crumbs. Cook until brown in deep hot lard at 365 degrees F. Drain on absorbent paper. If desired, serve with hot tomato sauce. Serves six.

THEORETICAL PAY INCREASE

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Frank Gerson, Philadelphia's unpaid fireman, now receives 50 cents more per day, but only in theory. As a result of routine action by the Civil Service Commission, Frank's salary was upped from $5 to $5.50, although he has not received any pay since September, 1938. At that time he became embroiled with the body over his age and his check has been held up.

Fruity Creamy Pies

By Frances Lee Barton

Do you like a chocolate pie? A fruity pie? A pie with whipped cream? If so, how would you like a pie that combines all of these? "Yes!" is the answer with this recipe:

Orange Chocolate Cream Pie
 3 squares unsweetened chocolate;
 2 ½ cups milk; 1 cup sugar; 6 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten; 2 tablespoons butter; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell; ½ cup cream, whipped; 2 tablespoons grated orange rind.

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, flour, and salt. Add gradually to chocolate mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly; then continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolks, stirring vigorously, return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Add butter and vanilla and cool. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Pile whipped cream lightly around edge of pie to form a 1-inch border. Sprinkle cream with grated orange rind.

Ground Meat An Aid To Economy

Among the most versatile of meats is that old favorite, ground meat. It may come to the table in any one of a number of guises—in a meat loaf, meat patties, or as the hearty ingredients of many combination dishes.

Ground meat is economical, too, because it is a way to use the less demanded meat cuts, another advantage. Beef neck and shank make excellent ground meat, and so does pork shoulder, lamb or veal shanks, breast, or neck.

Many ways to prepare ground meat, are always an addition to any cooking repertoire, so here are two which you may not have tried before. They are suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Ground Meat Balls

1 ½ pounds ground beef
 ½ pound ground pork
 2 eggs
 Salt and pepper
 6 slices bacon
 Bread dressing

Have beef neck or shank ground with fresh pork shoulder. Season with salt and pepper, and moisten with slightly beaten eggs. Pat to one-half inch thickness and in rectangular shape about three by four inches. Spread with a bread dressing and roll. Place in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, about one hour.

Lamb Loaf

2 pounds ground lamb
 1 cup fine bread crumbs
 1 cup peas
 ½ cup celery
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 ½ cup milk
 Salt and pepper

Economy Desserts

By Frances Lee Barton

HERE is a recipe for a dessert that may be made any morning from ingredients always on hand. Set it aside to cool and serve it either at noon or at the bridge luncheon if you wish. Best of all, it is easy to make, very easy on the pocket-book, and particularly delicious:

Canned Grapefruit Tapioca
 4 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; 2 ½ cups fruit juice and water; ½ cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup canned grapefruit; 2 tablespoons lemon juice.
 Combine tapioca, fruit juice and water, sugar, and salt in saucepan and mix well. Bring mixture quickly to a full boil over direct heat, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. (Mixture will be thin, do not overcook.) Add fruit and lemon juice. Cool, stirring occasionally — mixture thickens as it cools. Chill. Serves 6 to 8.

Have lamb from shank, breast or shoulder ground. Combine with bread crumbs, cooked peas, and chopped celery. Moisten with slightly beaten egg and milk. Pack into a loaf pan or ring, mould and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, about one and a half hours.

MEN'S GOOD FITTING WORK CLOTHES MEAN A GREATER COMFORT

By Miss Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative) Mother and her daughters choose their cotton house dresses with an eye to beauty as well as washability. Also father and the boys can spruce up for their work in washable attractive utility clothes—overalls, coveralls, service coats, and other styles of work clothes.

To most men, overalls mean denim, but they are also made of twill, covert, hickory stripe, drill, and jeans. Chambray is used for work shirts and children's play suits.

Mens' utility garments have been greatly improved in recent years both as to appearance and fit. The best work garments on the market today are available in tailored sizes, which means that the garments are cut in the proper proportions to care for the variations in all body measurements and not simply waist and leg measurements. In this way, better fit and comfort is assured every type of men—tall, short, slim, stout, or average.

Overalls should not shrink nor fade, and they should last a long time as well as make the man fairly presentable in appearance. When you buy overalls, look for a label telling you that the material is firm and strong, that it is vat dyed and has been sanforized. Look at the seams and see that they are lapped with no raw

"A substantial saving of life is hoped for during 1940. This is entirely possible, but it is plain that more adequate portection is necessary for the pedestrian and continued close co-operation of agencies engaged in accident prevention work will be required," say the police.

The police will continue to maintain a stringent enforcement of motor vehicle laws particularly the "50 Mile Per Hour Speed Limit." Pedestrians will be afforded more protection. Persons found walking on the highway while in an intoxicated condition will be taken into custody and detained until sober. Persons walking on the highway where there are no sidewalks will be instructed to walk facing traffic. Night walkers on highways will be urged to carry a light and wear clothing of a color that may be readily distinguished.

pervision of area offices in Pittsburgh, Scranton, Erie, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Altoona and various district offices connected with each. The enumerators take the field April 2 and will have 15 days to cover the cities and 30 days to complete their work in rural areas.

After that the enumerators' reports will be checked and tabulated in the area offices where, after another 30 days, the results will be announced and the reports will be forwarded to Washington for a final going-over.

The 1940 census is designed to give one of the most complete analyses of Americans ever taken, according to M. E. McGinley, area chief in Philadelphia, and there are several special questions.

For instance, there's the one about where you lived on April 1, 1935. That's to show what migrations in population have taken place in the last five years. There's also the controversial question on how much you earned in salary, wages or from other sources in 1939 and that, McGinley asserted, is simply to show whether national income is increasing or decreasing.

As for the 15 extra questions, they ask your parents' birthplace, what language was spoken at home in your childhood, whether you are a veteran, or wife, widow or child of a veteran, and whether you have a social security number. Married women will be asked whether they have been married more than once, their age at the first marriage and the number of children they have had.

While there is "no reason for anyone to turn the census taker down" or "kid" him, Uncle Sam has provided penalties for such acts, said E. D. McGurk, assistant in the Philadelphia office. Penalty for refusal is up to $100 fine or 60 days in jail or both and for false information is up to $500 fine or a year in jail or both.

this evening. In reality she is four years old, and a number of little tots will help her celebrate. Betty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, 705 Spruce street.

The invitation list includes: Barbara, Claire and John Bonner, Nancy and Mary Perry, Betty Scull, Mary and Jerry Kelly, Mary, Rose and Eunice Kelly. These little folks are anticipating the games and refreshments, which Betty's parents have arranged for the party tonight.

Another who is glad this is a leap year so he can have an anniversary, is Dominick Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Field, 216 Franklin street. It was on February 29, 1928, that Dominick first saw the light of day, but he has only had three anniversaries, so he deemed it time to have a party. Several relatives and friends will pay him honor this evening at his home, and Dominick, who is a student in the sixth grade at St. Ann's parochial school, can scarcely wait for the hour to arrive.

Mrs. Arthur C. Ludwig, 641 New Buckley street, marks her anniversary today also, but plans for no celebration. Miss Mary T. Eckert, 504 Pond street, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eckert, will observe her fifth anniversary—or it should be explained she was in reality born 20 years ago. The Edgely resident, Mrs. Frank Jackson, Bristol Pike, expects to entertain a few friends in the evening in commemoration of the anniversary of her birth, the first she had had in four years time.

Leap-Year Day goes back to ancient Egypt of the year 238 B. C. Its origin is on record in the seven-foot chiseled surface of the Tanis—or Canopus-Stone, a cast of which may be seen in the National Museum in Washington. This stone was discovered at Tanis, Egypt, in 1866. It bears a long inscription in Egyptian and Greek, a decree establishing Leap Year in Egypt.

The attempt to insert a Leap-Year Day every four years failed, however, because of opposition to change by the Egyptian priests.

The actual introduction of Leap Year into the calendar came 200 years later when Julius Caesar, combining scientific interest with military conquest, seized upon the superior Egyptian method of calendar calculation as a means for abolishing the many absurdities of the Roman system.

Defense Asks for Discharge Of Adam Greenberg

Black Cat Inn's array of cans and containers, was "kerosene" at the time it was analyzed by the chemist.

The credibility of Private Gowan's testimony at the first trial and the present trial was attacked by Attorney Getz and his associates, Wilbur Van Dine and Theodore Gardner, who read much of Gowan's former testimony.

The Court allowed the defense to read in the previous testimony of Private Gowan only for the purpose of testing credibility and not to try and prove that the Commonwealth has a new theory in the second trial—the kerosene and not the gasoline theory.

Private Gowan testified that Greenberg told him that he was alone at the Black Cat Inn the night of the fire and that he retired about 2 a. m.

Attorney Gardner opened to the jury at 1:15 yesterday afternoon.

Most of Tuesday afternoon's time was occupied by side-bar conferences and long and drawn-out efforts to get Commonwealth exhibits either offered in evidence or thrown out.

The "oily-looking liquid" which Commonwealth witnesses said they found at the Black Cat Inn the morning of the fire, in cans and other odd containers, was expertly described by Dr. Joseph W. E. Harrison, court chemist.

Dr. Harrison testified that the contents of the cans he examined, and which were allowed to be presented in evidence, contained "a petroleum distillate of high flash point, the approximate of kerosene." In plain words, asked for by counsel on both sides, the contents was kerosene.

The Commonwealth objected strenuously to the offering of a number of exhibits including the kerosene, because too much time had elapsed between the time of the fire and the day the liquid was taken to Philadelphia for analysis, which was February 19, this year. The fire was October 6, 1938. The Court ruled out some exhibits while others were entered.

One exhibit, that of gasoline taken from the car of Adam Greenberg at the scene of the fire, was thrown out and the jury directed to give no consideration to that part of the case.

J. Carroll Molloy, Doylestown, realtor, testified for the Commonwealth yesterday that the Black Cat Inn before the morning of the fire had a market value of $5500, including the building and three acres of land.

DREAM HIGHWAY COMING TRUE

(Condensed from Esso Oilways)

SOMETIME this summer motorists will have a dream of many years standing come true when traffic starts out over what is officially known as the Pennsylvania Turnpike, a new super-highway stretching 160 miles between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, dipping under mountains and hills; cutting 145 miles off the New York to Chicago route; providing road visibility of at least 600 feet and by-passing all towns en route. Two concrete lanes, each 24 feet wide, will be separated by a ten foot landscaped parkway.

For more than a hundred years Pennsylvania has tried to build a road that would overcome many of the barriers presented by the Allegheny Mountains. As far back as 1837 Pennsylvania appropriated money for a railroad through the mountains which would avoid mountain grades. In 1882 construction work began on the South Pennsylvania Railroad which reduced mountain grades 13,000 feet long to less than 4,000 feet and gradients from 9 per cent to less than 3 per cent. The project was abandoned after ten million dollars had been spent on it.

In 1937 the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission was created and the R.F.C. and P.W.A. provided loans of $70,000,000 to finance the construction of the turnpike. The Commission purchased with $2,000,000 of this money the abandoned railroad, thus obtaining 124 miles of roadbed and seven tunnels. In October 1938, work on the new road started, involving the largest highway earth moving job in the history of the world. Before the new turnpike is finished 26 million cubic yards of earth and rock will have been excavated. A total of 392,000 tons of cement, 50,000 tons of steel, 700,000 tons of sand and more than a million tons of crushed stone will go into the new highway, the building of which will entail the use of $25,000,000 worth of road building machinery to complete the job in 20 months instead of the normal three or four years.

At its peak, work on the turnpike required 15,000 men on the payrolls of 127 general contractors. The total cost per mile of the road will be $279,000. Draining and grading alone will cost $139,700 per mile as against $25,000 per mile for ordinary road building. Some six and one-half miles of tunnels will be used, all concrete lined, power-ventilated and equipped with various safety devices. These tunnels will reduce grades and curves, cut down mile-age and defeat traffic-delaying fogs and storms on mountain tops.

Although this new highway will be known officially as the Pennsylvania Turnpike, it is popularly referred to as the "dream highway." Even now truck and bus operators are preparing to use it as a time and money-saver on runs between New York and Chicago. At present most trucks avoid the Pennsylvania Mountains and use a northern route some 134 miles longer than the Turnpike route. Interest has already been shown in extending the road to the United States Navy Yard at Philadelphia and the Commission is also viewing the possibility of carrying it at the western end to the West Virginia line. Others talk of stretching it eventually to Chicago and Detroit. Certain it is that this ultra-modern highway will be a mark for future road-builders to shoot at for some time to come.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 28.—This is not a Russian tank attacking the Mannerheim Line in Finland but a rotary snow plow of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways attacking the huge drifts on U. S. Routes 322 and 422. Traffic on these routes was stalled as a result of the heavy drifts that followed the Valentine Day blizzard.

The heaviest equipment of the Department was pressed into service to open these important routes to traffic. Photographers of the Department snapped this large rotary snow plow in action as it cut into the drifts.

THE P. T. A.

(The following poem was composed by Gilbert R. Lovett, and read before members of Laurel Bend P. T. A.)

The members of the P. T. A. are quite a joyous lot, They're full of energy and pep and Johnny-on-the-spot;
When anything is needed to make the scholars more content,
They jump right into action and every moment is well spent.

They know just how to raise the funds to purchase what they need,
That is why a group like this is bound to ever succeed;
They work not for some recompense,
but just from pure love,
For every deed done for mankind brings a blessing from above.

The teachers and the parents are no longer far apart,
They work together for the child,
right from the very start;

They find the spots that are rather weak and together begin to plan
Just how to overcome these weaknesses the very best way they can.

They work to build good characters,
necessary for future use,
To educate the mind so that the body
gets no abuse;

They realize that every child is a precious gift of God,
The future citizens of this land, when we're beneath the sod.

So if it be God's will, may this popular association
Reach to every city, town and hamlet
in our nation;
For thro' a group like this many deeds can be nobly done
To better the lives and hopes of every native American son.

Merciful Father, for some of Thy children, today is but an added day of misery. We know that Thou dost love to come to Thy people in their hours of darkness. Come to them, we pray, in their time of trial. Quiet their quivering nerves; soothe their aching hearts; bring light to their minds in the midst of their perplexities. O God, be merciful to them and help them with life's mysteries. Amen.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Last evening's gala premiere of Hal Roach's "The Housekeeper's Daughter" at the Bristol Theatre provided movie-goers with the thrills and laughter and excitement important to first-rate motion picture entertainment.

The new film production, a gay comedy romance based on the best-selling novel by Donald Henderson Clarke, stars brunette-tressed Joan Bennett as the heroine of the story, with Adolphe Menjou and John Hubbard as her two heroes.

"The Housekeeper's Daughter" is a lively story of a young lady, who quits the underworld after being disillusioned with her boy friend.

GIRLS OF BENSALAM SET NEW SCORING RECORD ON COURT

Roll Up A Score of 51 to 24 Against Buckingham Doegirls

VANDEGRIFT IS STAR

Thelma Vandegrift Hits The Strings for Total of 28 Points

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Feb. 29.—One record was smashed and another just missed being broken as the Bensalem Owl girls' court team rolled up a 51-24 score over the Buckingham Doegirls in the final tilt of the Lower Bucks County League season here last night. The contest, originally scheduled for Friday, February 16, was postponed at that time due to a snowstorm.

In passing the half-century mark in team scoring, the Owlets broke by 8 points the former mark of 43 set last year by Bensalem and tied this season by Bristol in league competition. Thelma Vandegrift was the individual who barely missed setting a new league standard in individual scoring for a single contest when she hit the strings for an amazing total of 28 points.

That mark, too, is held by a former star for the Owlets, Betty Bound, who cavorted for coach Helen Smith's team last season. She set the record in the Southampton tilt last year when she hung up 29 points on 14 double deuces and a foul shot. Last night Vandegrift peppered the cords for 11 twin counters and added a half dozen free tosses in seven tries for a total of 28 tallies. She could have had a new record for herself had she not been a bit over-anxious and missed an easy under-the-basket shot in the clear in the third period.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE DRAWING TO A CLOSE

With first place at stake, the Grundy team and Rohm & Haas five play their final scheduled game of the Bristol Basketball League tonight. The Grundymen meet the Falls Alumni team, and Rohm & Haas' opponents are the Celtics. In the preliminary game, the second game of the playoff series in the Suburban League between Franklin and Third Ward will be played.

Grundy's is still maintaining a one-game lead on first place and a victory tonight will clinch the gonfalon regardless of the outcome of the Rohm & Haas-Celtics game. In the event of a Grundy defeat and a Rohm & Haas triumph, then a playoff will be necessary to see who draws the bye. As the matter now stands, Profy and Manhattan have a playoff to determine the winner of third place.

Falls Alumni is expected to give the wooden workers plenty of trouble tonight. In their last game played, the Falls' team sank in a total of 63 points and Coach DeKisi claims that his boys have their eyes glued to the basket and will surprise the Grundyites. Manager Hermann will start Zack, Gallagher, Buckman, Vanzant, and Nowalski against the Falls team. Buckman scored the goal which gave the Grundy team a win over Manhattan Monday night.

Credit must be given to the Rohm & Haas boys. They started off bad and lost three out of their first four games. But suddenly they began to click with the result that today they are assured of second place and perhaps a tie for first. The chemical workers will be in one of the playoffs, as they have won 13 and lost six. The Rohm & Haas team that will start tonight's game will be composed of the following: Roe, Cole, Cahall, Smith, and Everitt.

Third Ward is the favorite to cop their contest from the Franklin Club. The Franks had plenty of fight in the first tilt but lacked the passing which was evident in the Pikers' win. In order to win, the Franklin team must stop Dugan and Carter.

First game will get under way at 7:15 o'clock.

JIM CASEY PINNED ON MAT BY PLUMMER

TRENTON, Feb. 29.—Lou Plummer, Texas badman, won his sixth straight victory at the local Arena last night when he pinned Jim Casey, substitute for Yvon Robert, after 28 minutes, in the wind-up.

The muscular Texan lived up to expectations and had the Irishman at his mercy during the better part of the tussle. Lou employed most of the off-color holds in winning handily over Casey.

Jim managed to get the upper hand a few times, only to have the cagey Plummer worm his way to the ropes, where Referee John Seaman broke the hold. When the situation was reversed Seaman had all he could do to make the Texas roughneck break. Lou scored the fall after flipping Casey about with a series of punishing headlocks.

An amusing match was presented in the semi-windup. Tor Johnson, 310-pound Swede, had the fans chuckling from the time he entered the ring until he left. Tor was pitted against Tommy O'Toole, likable Texas Irishman. Johnson almost brought the house down, literally and otherwise, when he flung himself bodily at the prostrate O'Toole. Tommy saw the vast bulk descending just in time, and managed to wiggle from its path. Tor struck the canvas with a thud and appeared very disappointed as the fans howled. O'Toole finally won the match after six minutes when he upset the giant with a leg hold.

The best match of the night was the one Tommy Rae and Angelo Savoldi waged. This pair gave the fans a genuine sample of good wrestling. Rounds of applause greeted the pair throughout the contest. Rae finally won the match after 19 minutes when he tied Savoldi up in a knot.

Frank Bronowicz filled in for Casey in the second match and tossed Jim Parker in 20 minutes. The opener was won by Allan Eustance, who pinned Joe Maynard after 11 minutes.
